

DIALOGUE

Dialogue: A Journal of Mormon Thought would like to include your work in a forthcoming issue, to be published by the University of Illinois Press.

Please note that the journal also features works of scholarship with a limited audience. To achieve broad dissemination of this work to scholars, we intend to use digital media in addition to print and languages beyond English. With that in mind, I request a non-exclusive license for the Press as follows:

World rights for all editions (including digital formats), in subsidiary licenses (such as translations and versions made by nonprofit organizations for the blind or physically handicapped).

Beyond such use you retain the rights to your work. Should you publish it elsewhere, you must fully acknowledge its first publication in Dialogue: A Journal of Mormon Thought, including year, volume, and issue number.

Your signature on this contract confirms that you hold copyright to your work. If it has been previously published, please provide publication details of the original, so we can give credit to the original publication.

When granting permission for this use, please bear in mind the scholarly nature of this project and the fact that the Press is a not-for-profit publisher.

Permission is requested to use the following material:
