

Two Ideas

C. Dylan Bassett

1.

in counter-sense

the eye hunts out
more than what it holds

more than holding

an illumination
assuming god
now as always

plays no / part in

2.

so the sun
explains the sky
aimless in

exactitude so
cannot be seen exactly

only seen straining
the eye from what it sees

to what sees it